

YOU ARE HERE

The new single by NUNNERY NORHEIM

Release date: 29th June 2023

The new single, You Are Here, marks a striking maturity and confidence from the duo, in both songwriting and production. With a soundscape reminiscent of Beth Orton or Kathryn Williams, the folk synth ballad weaves stories of cities remembered and imagined in to an anthem that hooks you and refuses to let go.

Lizzie Nunnery describes the writing process:

‘Early in the infamous spring of 2020 I started sketching a poem about far away cities — trying to express some of that longing for a happier past, and also for an alternate future that had been so suddenly disrupted. The imagined world outside our small rooms seemed suddenly fragile and unobtainable: ‘I’d like to go to Paris, but what if I arrive to find Paris up in flames? / I’d like to go to Venice, but what if I arrive to find Venice lost to rain.’ Vidar had some lovely pensive piano chords he’d been playing with for a while, and a couple of lines he thought might fit a love song: ‘We broke down by river when we ran out of road / The padlocks on the railing were rusting in the snow.’ So, we threw our ideas together and I started playing around with melody lines. Gradually, we realised we were mapping the geography of a love story. And as we worked, the song transformed in to something hopeful and joyous — a celebration of the great scope of a relationship and an acknowledgement of the looping, expansive nature of time and space. We are in all the places of our past. When we love someone we mark them on the landscape: ‘You are here, and you are here, and you are here...’

Further info on ‘You Are Here’:

Written by Lizzie Nunnery and Vidar Norheim

Vocals Lizzie Nunnery

Piano/guitar/synth/drums/vocals Vidar Norheim

Bass Geth Griffith

Synth Dave Berger

Produced by Vidar Norheim and Dave Berger

Links:

Bandcamp

Promo link

Download the track

Watch the lyric video